

50% of Patients Are Dissatisfied With Their Patient Communications. How do you stack up? DrFirst Take the Quiz

COVID-19
COVERAGE

STAY UP-TO-DATE HEALTHCARE NEWS AND ANALYSIS BECKER'S HOSPITAL REVIEW E-WEEKLY Click Here

Controlling the 'paradigm of care' in ASCs: 1 CEO on balancing independence with profit

Patsy Newitt - Friday, July 9th, 2021 Print | Email

Listen

The pandemic accelerated the quantity and complexity of procedures performed in ASCs, leading to an increase in partnerships and consolidation in the industry.

Chas Sanders, founder and CEO of Margin, a company that manages procurement for 31 outpatient procedural facilities in 10 states, spoke with Becker's ASC Review on the balance between ASC independence and profitability.

Question: On a scale of 1-10, how important is it to you that ASCs are independent?

Chas Sanders: Eight out of 10. There is a point to which scale can be a detriment. Meaning, if you have 10 centers and open two more, then the concern for price erosion is high with industry. Whereas, if you leverage the 12 centers at once, you may do better negotiating. Additionally, a large reason why physicians open centers is to control their paradigm of care. In many circumstances, that is catering to the specific needs of a community. As organizations scale, so does the standardization of care that could diminish some of the original appeal.

Q: What's the most significant thing you've learned about ASCs in the past year?

CS: Resiliency and strategy. We get so focused on day-to-day operations that the right strategic planning doesn't occur. With a down-tick of cases due to the pandemic, many of our customer partners have found the bandwidth to focus on how to grow, the patient experience and the two-year horizon. This is allowing them to offer the best product in their communities.

Latest articles on leadership:

- 5 highest-paid CEOs of ASC, medical practice chains
- How providers, payers and HCOs will drive ASC competition
- What's the ideal leadership model for ASCs?

Your input is needed! Becker's Healthcare is hosting a survey focused Employee Benefits/ Health Plans. Click here to fill out the 5 minute survey to receive a complementary badge to a Becker's conference.

BECKER'S HEALTHCARE
LOOKING FOR PROCESS IMPROVEMENT WEBINARS?
Click here to see what's coming up next from Becker's.

- Featured Webinars
1. How Digital Automation and eSignatures Improve Patient Experiences in Healthcare
 2. Patients expect a better technology experience: Here's how to meet their new expectations
 3. Providing Flexible Healthcare Financing Options to Help Meet the Needs of Today's Patients
 4. Dynamic risk management in the digital era — Tips for health systems
 5. How patient-provider relationships affect the success of your value-based care program
 6. How hospitals nationwide are transforming pharmacy performance
 7. What matters has changed: Why collaboration between supply chain, clinical and distribution partners is crucial
 8. How a pharmacy-led initiative helped AdventHealth manage practice change in the ICU
 9. Contract management excellence in the real world: How to keep pace with healthcare innovation and deliver better outcomes for your stakeholders
 10. Rethink your hospital revenue process: Reduce rejected and denied claims and improve the patient experience